302-4	Reduction of energy consumption	Planet: Planet: SR 24-41 Sustainability metrics: Appendix 2-3 Reduction in energy consumption is reported based on specific initiatives as opposed to a single value across the organisation which is not practicable to calculate on the basis there are multiple initiatives dispersed across the various business. Initiatives relating to LED lighting retrofit and solar panel installations are included in the Planet section. These relate to electricity reductions only and comply with NGER measurement guidelines
Emissions
305-1	Direct (Scope 1) GHG emissions	Planet: Planet: SR 24-41 Sustainability metrics: Appendix 2-3 Gross direct scope 1 emissions are reported in the Sustainability metrics section. In calculating Scope 1 emissions, CO2, CH4, HFC and N2O gases were included in the calculations. The calculation methodology and associated emission factors and global warming potentials are aligned with NGER Guidelines and conversion factors sourced from NZ and NGA emission factors. Refrigerant emissions were calculated using NGER emission factors and GWPs have been applied to supplier specific refrigerant blends. An operational control approach was adopted for calculating Scope 1 emissions.	Part c, d	N/A	Biogenic CO2 emissions and base year have been deemed not applicable to the business due to nature of Woolworths Group principal activities and operations and the reporting of absolute scope 1 emissions.
305-2	Energy indirect (Scope 2) GHG emissions	Planet: Planet: SR 24-41 Sustainability metrics: Appendix 2-3 Gross indirect scope 2 emissions are reported in the Sustainability Metrics section. In calculating Scope 2 emissions, CO2, CH4 and N2O gases were included in the calculations. The calculation methodology and associated emission factors are aligned with NGER Guidelines and conversion factors sourced from NZ and NGA emission factors. An operational control approach was adopted for calculating Scope 2 emissions.	Part b, d	N/A	Gross market based energy scope 2 emissions and base year have been deemed not applicable to based on the nature of Woolworths Group principal activities and operations and the reporting of absolute scope 2 emissions

Environmental Compliance
307-1	Non-compliance with environmental laws and regulations	Woolworths defended an appeal brought by the ACCC in relation to "biodegradable and compostable" labels on its "Select eco" disposable picnicware products. At first instance, on 5 July 2019, the Federal Court found in Woolworths' favour, that Woolworths' environmental claims on the products were not false or misleading. The ACCC's appeal was heard in before the full federal court in February 2020. We are awaiting judgment.
Employment
401-1	New employee hires and employee turnover	Workplace metrics: Appendix 4-7
401-3	Parental leave	Workplace metrics: Appendix 7	Part d, e	N/A	Woolworths Group does not report total number of employees that returned to work after parental leave ended that were still employed 12 months after their return to work, by gender, or return to work and retention rates of employees that took parental leave, by gender on the basis the information is not applicable, as management does not use this as part of our internal reporting or benchmarking process.
Labor/Management Relations
402-1	Minimum notice periods regarding operational changes	Most of our enterprise agreements make provision for us to notify and consult with employees and the relevant unions about the introduction of major change.
Occupational Health and Safety
403-1	Occupational health and safety management system	Workplace metrics: Appendix 8 -11 The safety and health management systems covers retail operations, supply chain, warehousing, distribution, manufacturing and includes all our workplaces. The management systems covers all activities undertaken and outlines requirements and performance monitoring of contractors activities. Businesses are enabled to establish their own safety, health and wellbeing governance arrangements, provided that those arrangements equal or exceed the performance requirements set out in the Woolworths Governance Framework. The governance arrangements of the businesses are subject to assurance activities. Woolworths employs both internal and external resources for the development and implementation of the safety and health management systems. The General Manager Group Safety, Health and Wellbeing has overall responsibility for monitoring the effective implementation of the safety and health management systems. Each business has a dedicated safety and health team responsible for the development, implementation and maintenance of the safety and health management systems. Where required, external consultants are used to support internal resources, however overall responsibility and accountability rests with team members employed by Woolworths. The Board is committed to laying a strong foundation for overseeing the effective management of safety, health and wellbeing throughout Woolworths. Management is accountable for maintaining a strong safety, health and wellbeing culture as well as the effective management of safety, health and wellbeing throughout Woolworths.
403-2	Hazard identification, risk assessment, and incident investigation	The Woolworths Group Safety & Health Standards set the requirements for incident investigation and routine and non-routine hazard identification and risk assessment. Processes to complete these tasks are included in the business specific Safety and Health Management Systems. There are routine risk management processes including hazard identification programs, risk assessments, workplace inspections and incident reporting which seek input and involvement from team members and contractors. Team members are also trained to identify, assess, control (where possible) and report hazards they observe. Hazards are assessed using the Woolworths Group enterprise risk matrix for safety to determine the risk (rating) they pose based on the severity of harm they have the potential to cause and the likelihood that harm will occur. Risks are escalated to different levels of the organisation based on their rating. Data from routine and non-routine risk management processes are captured in our Safety Incident Management System. Woolworths Group Safety & Health complete an annual risk review of our operations to identify hazards, assess risks and identify where existing controls can be strengthened or new controls can be implemented by applying the hierarchy of controls. Hazard and incident data, risk assessments, safety investigations, changes in our operations, legislation, codes of practice, standards and industry knowledge are considered as part of the review. Outputs of the review include a prioritised list of our safety and health risks and control improvement plans that are built to eliminate hazards and mitigate risks. Woolworths Group ensures the quality of hazard identification, risk assessment and incident investigation processes including the competency of persons completing them by: - Completing an analysis of the safety and health competencies that each role requires to complete hazard identification, risk assessment and incident investigation processes, and providing a combination of internal and external training and competency assessment to achieve these. - Utilising internal and external independent assurance teams to assess the effectiveness of our processes and provide details on how they can be improved Each business participates in a safety and health management systems review program with independent assurance teams to ensure the continuing suitability and effectiveness of their system. The review program looks at the design, implementation and governance of the system, and is undertaken with each business, involving both front line staff and senior management. The review process takes into account: health and safety management system audit results, objectives, targets and performance indicators, changing circumstances, opportunities for continuous improvements Action plans to address improvement opportunities are monitored at a Group level and the status of improvement actions are reported to the Board Sustainability Committee. Processes to report hazards and hazardous situations. Team members have many ways in which they can report work-related hazards and hazardous situations. They include: - directly to their line manager or their Health and Safety Representative / Safety team member - using the 'Pulse' hazard reporting program - through programmed hazard inspection activities - using the health and safety issue resolution process - using the safety@woolworths email - anonymously through the Speak Up program Woolworths encourages team members, contractors and customers to report hazards and to stop work when they feel their safety is at risk. The Woolworths Code of Conduct includes personal commitments to safety: "I will always address hazards once I become aware of them" and "I immediately stop any job or task that you believe is unsafe". Each business has a process which allows team members to stop work if they think a task or process is unsafe. There is also an issue resolution process, safety and health representation and arrangements to assist where needed. This protects team members from reprisals. Regulators and team member representatives can be invited into the issue resolution process at any stage. The Group Speak Up process enables anonymous reporting preventing any possibility of reprisal against team members. The Group Safety, Health and Wellbeing Function is independent from the Business and monitors complaints and issues to ensure there is no reprisal of team members who raise concerns.

Disclosure Number	Disclosure Title	Reference/Direct answer	Part not reported	Reason for omission	Explanation
		Investigating work-related incidents The Safety and Health Management Systems includes a procedure to investigate health and safety risks relating to incidents, with the level of investigation being guided based on the severity of the incident. Investigations on more significant incidents (Category 1 and 2 incidents) are required to identify the root cause and any contributing factors of work-related incidents (incorporating appropriate investigation methodologies) and implement and track the completion of corrective actions. Risk control measures in accordance with the hierarchy of controls and legal requirements are reviewed during the investigation process. Investigations are undertaken by competent team members in accordance with our procedure: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- are undertaken by competent team members in accordance with our procedure</li> <li>- identify the factor(s) that led to the injury, illness, incident or other system failure</li> <li>- review the identified hazards, assessed risks and effectiveness of the control measures</li> <li>- recommend appropriate control measures and corrective actions</li> </ul> Corrective actions are: determined in consultation with affected team members, implemented in a timely manner, assessed for their effectiveness. Incident, injury and illness data including investigation findings, hazards and risk assessments are captured in a safety incident management system. This data is reviewed regularly to identify any emerging trends and implement required improvement actions in the Safety and Health Management Systems.
403-3	Occupational health services	We provide various occupational health service functions to support the health, safety and wellbeing of our team members and contractors. We utilise the services of ergonomists, physiologists and physiotherapists, psychologists, and occupational health nurses, and other allied health specialists as required, to assist with identification and management of health and safety risks that may impact the health and wellbeing of our team members and contractors. The way these services are utilised varies by business. Where applicable, team members are provided with time off their normal work tasks to consult with occupational health specialists as for health assessment and treatment. We offer open access for our team members and contractors to confidential counselling and support services through our employee assistance program (Assist). Woolworths ensures the quality of the services by using independent occupational health service providers with recognised qualifications and accreditations.
403-4	Worker participation, consultation, and communication on occupational health and safety	Team members, safety committees and team members representatives (Unions) are consulted on and participate in safety and health matters including the development, and evaluation of the Safety and Health Management Systems. The requirements for communication and consultation in relation to safety and health matters are set out in the Group Safety &amp; Health Standards. Communication and consultation occurs through a number of forums, for example health and safety committees, team talks, internal communications, union communications, workplace inspections, audits, safety alerts, surveys and feedback forms. Each business has consultative arrangements prescribed in their Safety and Health Management Systems. There are procedures agreed to by team members and management outlining their involvement and consultation in health and safety matters and issues. Some businesses have Health and Safety Representative (HSR) arrangements, and some have other consultative arrangements such as safety committees. The HSR or safety committees participate in: assessment and control of risks, health and safety training, workplace inspections and hazard identification, committee meetings, accident/incident investigations, development, implementation and review of procedures. The consultation arrangements, including meeting frequency differs in each business. They range from monthly, bi-monthly to quarterly. All team members, including HSR's and safety committee members have the authority to stop work if they think a task or process is unsafe. HSR's have the additional authority to issue provisional improvement notices to the business.
403-5	Worker training on occupational health and safety	Each business completes an analysis of the safety and health training or skills that each role requires to safely fulfil the responsibilities assigned to them and then build a documented training plan which outlines the legislative, formal, on the job and refresher training requirements. The plan is implemented so that team members are trained (as appropriate) to perform their work safely. Training is delivered using a variety of methods including classroom and on-the-job learning, simulators and online learning depending on the needs of the participant and the type of content being delivered. Training covers hazard awareness, risk management, incident investigation, task and job related skills and safe operating procedures for equipment. Team members are provided time during their paid work day to complete required training. Required training is provided to team members free of charge. Training may be delivered by registered training organisations or in-house depending on the content, and is designed and delivered to a level suitable for team members. Competency assessment requirements are defined based on the risks involved and any relevant legislative or industry requirements. Training effectiveness is reviewed on a regular basis and considers any relevant incident history.
403-6	Promotion of worker health	Woolworths offers a range of services to team members to access non-occupational medical and healthcare services such as physiotherapy and chiropractic services, access to onsite gym and wellness centres and psychological support and counselling services through the Team Assist program, discounted health and insurance memberships. The Woolworths Wellbeing Portal is internal online site that is available to all team members and provides support covering physical, mental, career and spiritual wellbeing. Other support services are provided including smoking cessation, addiction counselling, financial wellbeing programs, reduced price gym memberships and other health programs.
403-7	Prevention and mitigation of occupational health and safety impacts directly linked by business relationships	Woolworths has in place policies, standards and processes to address occupational health and safety risks posed by our business relationships including with suppliers and contract partners both locally and globally. Our Responsible Sourcing Policy details our commitment and expectations for suppliers whom we have a direct relationship with for goods and/or services we sell or use in our businesses. We require our suppliers to abide by our Responsible Sourcing Standards which includes comprehensive criteria on business integrity, labour rights, fair and safe working conditions and environmental compliance. The standards specifically call out requirements to prevent and mitigate significant negative occupational health and safety impacts, including but not limited to complying with relevant local laws and regulations. Where there is a gap between our requirements and standards and the local laws, rules and regulations, the more stringent requirements and standards apply. Woolworths will verify compliance to the Standards. This may be in the form of a supplier self-assessment, requesting policies, procedures or records under our mutual recognition audit program, implementing a corrective action plan, or a site visit or a formal audit. Our verification and audit framework is built on recommended practices from recognised social compliance industry programs. Woolworths Group Safety &amp; Health Standards set the expectations for our businesses to establish contractor safety management processes that address occupational health and safety obligations of our contract partners, including the management of hazards and risks associated with the work performed for or on behalf of Woolworths.
