Australia's fastest growing hardware store

Thursday, 13 March 2014: Masters, Australia's fastest growing hardware store, has opened the doors to its Bundamba store, bringing low prices and more choice to everyday DIYers and tradies.

Mr Victor Attwood, Deputy Mayor, Ipswich City Council and Mr Ian Berry, Member for Ipswich, joined Masters management and store staff for an official 'board cutting' ceremony today to mark the opening of the store.

The new store – the 12th for Masters in Queensland – has created 110 new local job opportunities. The 11,400 square metre store is one of 42 Masters outlets, offering an unmatched range of more than 35,000 products at Australia's best prices.

"The team at Masters Bundamba is on hand to help customers with their everyday hardware needs and make every project a reality, no matter how big or small," said store manager Peter Carpenter.

"The Masters 'Best Price Guarantee' means if anyone finds a better price on an identical item at a local retailer, even up to 30 days after purchase, Masters will beat it by ten per cent.*

"Customer service is one of our strengths - if you need assistance, simply press one of the many customer service buttons throughout the store and a staff member will be on hand to help within 60 seconds.

"As well as an unparalleled variety of home and hardware products, Masters Bundamba will offer a variety of big brand appliances, kitchens, a huge choice of paint, an impressive garden range and much more," he said.

An extensive drive-through trade area will cater to the needs of tradies, offering outstanding value, service and quality. Trade customers will find everything they need from the world's best trade suppliers.

Home delivery on a vast range of products is available to Masters customers online at www.masters.com.au. The click and collect service means customer can order online and pick up from the Bundamba store.

The new Masters store is light, bright, air-conditioned and a great destination for everyone from families to tradies.
