

Petrol price information sharing proceedings resolved

Wednesday, 23 December 2015: Woolworths is pleased with today's outcome to have resolved these proceedings by agreement. The ACCC has discontinued its case against Woolworths, Informed Sources and four other petrol retailers, without any admission of wrongdoing and with no contribution to the ACCC's costs.

The Informed Sources service will continue to be available for use, with information being made available to consumers and third parties. Woolworths has been publishing its prices to consumers since October 2012 via the Woolworths Fuel App and we will continue to do so.

Woolworths has always considered the Informed Sources service to be pro-competitive, helping Woolworths to efficiently compete in petrol markets and to ensure motorists get great prices.

We are happy that our customers will be able to continue to compare our and our competitors' prices on the Woolworths Fuel App, so they can be sure they are getting a great price for fuel at our sites.
